

Name : _____ Class : _____ Date : _____

Future Perfect Continuous Tense [Action Verbs, Be Verbs, Possessive Forms]

Future Perfect Continuous Tense : Action Verbs

Affirmative ➞

Subject + will have been + verb(-ing) + object

Example ➞

I will have been working for three hours by 5 PM.

Negative ➞

Subject + will not have been + verb(-ing) + object

Example ➞

I won't have been working here for long by next month.

Interrogative ➞

Will + subject + have been + verb(-ing) + object

Example ➞

Will he have been waiting for long when we arrive?

Note:

Use the future perfect continuous tense for an action that will have been continuing for a period before a specific future time or another future action. It is often used with for, since, by, and by the time.

Future Perfect Continuous Tense : Be Verbs

Affirmative ➞

Subject + will have been + being + complement

Example ➞

You will have been being patient throughout the process.

Negative ➞

Subject + will not have been + being + complement

Example ➞

They will not have been being honest in their report.

Interrogative ➞

Will + subject + have been + being + complement?

Example ➞

Will they have been being cooperative during the meeting?

Note:

The form will have been being is grammatically correct but extremely rare. It describes temporary behavior or a continuing state up to a specific future time and is mainly used in formal or highly precise writing.

Future Perfect Continuous Tense : Possessive Forms

Affirmative ➞

Subject + will have been + having + activity/experience

Example ➞

I will have been having lunch with my colleagues.

Negative ➞

Subject + will not have been + having + activity/experience

Example ➞

They will not have been having their break.

Interrogative ➞

Will + subject + have been + having + activity/experience?

Example ➞

Will you have been having lunch by the time I get there?

Note:

Do not use will have been having to show possession; use will have had instead. Use will have been having only for an ongoing activity or experience continuing until a specific future time.

