

Name : _____ Class : _____ Date : _____

Simple Future Tense

[Action Verbs, Be Verbs, Possessive Forms]

Simple Future Tense : Action Verbs

Affirmative ➞

Subject + will + base form of verb + object/time phrase

Example ➞

I will go to the market tomorrow.

Negative ➞

Subject + will not (won't) + base form of verb + object

Example ➞

We will not participate in the event.

Interrogative ➞

Will + subject + base form of verb + object/time?

Example ➞

Will they help us tomorrow?

Note:

Traditionally, shall was used with I and we, while will was used with other subjects. In contemporary English, will is commonly used with all subjects, and shall is mainly used in formal language, offers, and suggestions.

Simple Future Tense : Be Verbs

Affirmative ➞

Subject + will be + adjective/noun/prepositional phrase

Example ➞

You will be fine after some rest.

Negative ➞

Subject + will not be (won't be) + adjective/noun

Example ➞

I won't be busy tomorrow.

Interrogative ➞

Will + subject + be + adjective/noun/prepositional phrase?

Example ➞

Had she been being rude?

Note:

Use will be with all subjects to describe a future state, condition, or location. Shall be may be used with I / we in formal English, but will be is standard in modern English.

Simple Future Tense : Possessive Forms

Affirmative ➞

Subject + will have + object/possession

Example ➞

I will have a new phone next week.

Negative ➞

Subject + will not have (won't have) + object/possession

Example ➞

I won't have enough money.

Interrogative ➞

Will + subject + have + object/possession?

Example ➞

Will they have new uniforms?

Note:

Use will have with all subjects to show future possession or ownership. Shall have may be used with I and we in formal English, but will have is standard in modern English..

